

91

GENERAL ARTICLES

- 04 Noise Assisted Directed Motion at the Molecular Level – 2
Mangal C Mahato and A M Jayannavar
- 14 The Mathematics of Symmetrical Factorial Designs
Mausumi Bose
- 20 Polycyclic Aromatic Hydrocarbons in Air and their Toxic Potency
R Mohanraj and P A Azeez
- 28 Keratinophilic Fungi: Nature's Keratin Degrading Machines!
Their Isolation, Identification and Ecological Role
Rahul Sharma and R C Rajak
- 41 Electrical Conduction and Superconductivity
Suresh V Vettoor
- 49 Decoding Codes on Graphs
Low Density Parity Check Codes
A S Madhu and Aditya Nori

60

Think It Over

88

Solution to the Problem posed by S N Maitra
February 2003 issue

Information and Announcements

Refresher Course on Frontiers in Inorganic Chemistry 92

Refresher Course on Lasers and Applications in Chemical Processes 93

Refresher Course in Mathematics 94

60 Evolution to 3G Mobile Communication

Second Generation Cellular Systems

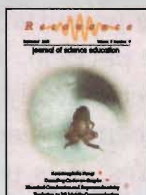

R Ramachandran

BOOK REVIEWS

90 Late Night Thoughts ...

Harini Nagendra

Front Cover

Superconductors are ideal diamagnetics and completely expel magnetic field at low temperatures. Normal things, like the frog in the cover picture, can do it as well if placed in a very strong magnetic field.

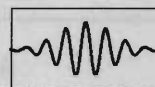

Photo credits: High Field Magnet Laboratory, University of Nijmegen, The Netherlands
(Colour scheme for cover by Jayant Rao)

Back Cover

Raj Chandra Bose
(1901 – 1987)

DEPARTMENTS

Editorial

01

Editor's Column
G Nagendrappa

Classroom

Construction of an Electrically Sustained Rijke Tube Set-up 73
Wai Hoong

Cyclic Decimal Expansions 75
V Subramanyam

Simple, Concept-Centred, Innovative, Open-Ended Experiments in Physics – 2 81
A W Joshi,
V H Raybagkar and
F I Surve

Inside Back Cover

Flowering Trees
(Credits: K Sankara Rao, IISc)