

Flowering Trees

Anogeissus latifolia (Roxb. ex DC.) Wall. ex Guillemain & Perr. of Combretaceae is a large deciduous tree with whitish-grey bark. Leaves are simple and leathery. Flowers are small and occur in more or less globose clusters. Several fruits are packed in a globose head and are winged. Wood of A. latifolia is strong and tough and useful for agricultural implements, carts and building. The tree gives a gum and the leaves are used in tanning.
