

Information and Announcements

Nobel Prize 2010

Physiology or Medicine

“for the development of in vitro fertilization” to

Robert G Edwards, University of Cambridge, Cambridge, United Kingdom.

Physics

“for groundbreaking experiments regarding the two-dimensional material graphene” to

Andre Geim, University of Manchester, Manchester, United Kingdom;

Konstantin Novoselov, University of Manchester, Manchester, United Kingdom.

Chemistry

“for palladium-catalyzed cross couplings in organic synthesis” to

Richard F Heck, University of Delaware, USA;

Ei-ichi Negishi, Purdue University, West Lafayette, IN, USA;

Akira Suzuki, Hokkaido University, Sapporo, Japan.

