

Flowering Trees

Acrocarpus fraxinifolius Wight & Arn. (PINK CEDAR, AUSTRALIAN ASH) of Caesalpiniaceae is a lofty unarmed deciduous native tree that attains a height of 30–60m with buttresses. Bark is thin and light grey. Leaves are compound and bright red when young. Flowers in dense, erect, axillary racemes. They are green with crimson stamens. Pod is flat with the upper margin winged. Wood is useful in construction, manufacture of furniture, tea-chests, etc.