Flowering Trees

Ficus carica L. (Syn: Ficus macrocarpa Gasp.), commonly called ‘Edible Fig Tree’, ‘Anjeer Tree’ of the family Moraceae, is a small deciduous tree with milky sap. Bark is silvery grey; leaves alternate, serrate, deeply 3–5 lobed, rough with small stipules. Figs (1 or 2) in the leaf axils; fruit 1-4-long, greenish when young turning dark-purple upon maturity. Pollination by fig-wasps. Cultivated for the edible fig.